A timeless sailing classic, this 1986 Botnia H-Boat combines performance, elegance, and reliability in a proven one-design hull. As one of Europe's largest one-design keelboat classes, the H-Boat is renowned for its excellent seaworthiness, responsive handling, and versatility—perfect for both day cruising and competitive racing.

Built in Finland by Botnia, this example measures 8.28m in length with a 2.18m beam and 1.30m draft. It comes well equipped with two complete sets of sails including spinnakers, as well as full covers for the boat, mainsail, and furling jib. Powered by a Mercury 5HP outboard engine, it also includes an aluminium road trailer with transport box (German registration).

Well maintained and ready to sail, this yacht is located in Tavira, Portugal, and represents an excellent opportunity to acquire a true classic with strong racing pedigree.
